

Cecil King Slated to Address Torrance Woman's Club

Torrance will welcome Congressman Cecil R. King, next Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, when the 17th Congressional District spokesman addresses the Torrance Woman's Club, 1422 Engracia.

Now campaigning for his tenth term, Congressman King is a ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee. Sponsored by the Torrance Democratic Headquarters Committee and Torrance Democrats, Inc., the meeting will be open to the public.

More than 11 million local taxpayer dollars have been returned to the 17th Congressional District in the last nine years for use in building new schools and to help with school operating costs. King announced today.

"During this period, school districts of the area have received $7,419,568 for construction of new schools and added classrooms as provided by Public Law 815, and the additional sum of $4,196,856 for assistance with their operating expenditures under Pub-

U.S. Education Office Aids P.V. Schools

Congressman Cecil R. King today announced that the U.S. Office of Education has certified a federal grant of $26,126 for immediate payment to the Palos Verdes School District to assist them with current expenditures.

The award is made possible under provisions of Public Law 874 which offers assistance to schools in federally affected areas.

From application made by Superintendent Wayne L. Butterbaugh, a tentative entitlement of $27,502 has been set aside for assistance to the Palos Verdes School District during fiscal year 1960, Congressman King stated.

INDIVIDUALISTS

Only two-thirds of all new homes built are connected to municipal sewage systems, Anaconda copper drainage specialists report. The rest have individual waste disposal systems, usually a septic tank or cesspool.

NAA Slates Guest Speaker

Long Beach Chapter of the National Association of Accountants had Marshall E. Dunn as speaker, last week at the Lafayette Hotel. "Variable Budgets" is topic of his address.

Dunn has long been associated with the oil industry in the Long Beach area. He is a partner in the public accounting and management services firm of Harry A. Wardenburg & Associates.

Cancer Society Announces Gifts to Aid Research

The American Cancer Society today announced grants of more than $150,000 to Southern California Universities, Medical Centers and Hospitals for continuing research in the battle against cancer.

Largest single grant, $43,829, went to Renato Dulbecco, M.D., Professor of Biology at Cal Tech, to support a study of tumor producing viruses. Dr. Dulbecco, received his M.D. degree at the University of Torino, Italy, in 1936 and has been on the Institute staff since 1949. He is now in the second year of a five years study to tumor viruses.

By understanding the exact mechanism of virus action in causing malignancy, it is anticipated that therapeutic and preventive measures against the onset of cancer will be aided.

Other grants include $18,650 to establish Fellowships for cancer research by Philip C. Hanawalt, Ph.D., and Dr. Homer Jacobson, of Cal Tech. Dr. Hanawalt, a graduate of Yale University, comes to Cal Tech from the University Institute of Microbiology, Copenhagen, Denmark, where he studied for two years. Dr. Jacobson comes to Cal Tech from Brooklyn College.

Two grants totaling $72,801 were made to D. B. MacCallum, M.D., Ph.D., of the Los Angeles Veterans Administration Center and Bernard Kordan, M.D., of the University of Southern California for continuation of a cooperative pilot study of radiology and cytology screening methods of early diagnosis of lung cancer.

Dr. Lester M. Morrison, Assistant Professor of the College of Medical Evangelists, received a grant of $12,500 for a program to determine relationships between hepatitis and cirrhosis of the liver and the occurrence of primary cancer of the liver. Dr. Lester M. Morrison is also a senior attending physician at the Los Angeles County General Hospital.

A grant of $3,600 has been awarded to E. M. Butt, M.D., Chief Pathologist at the Los
